

Textbusters: Detecting LLM-Generated Text

Yasmin Zakaim & Elia Yakin

Team Introduction

Elia Yakin

Yasmin Zakaim

yasminz.com

Overview

1. The Challenge
2. Provided Data
3. Competition Constraints
4. Our Strategy
5. Architecture
6. Results
7. Conclusions

The Challenge

Provided Data

- Train set of:
 - 1,375 essays written by students
 - 3 essays written by LLMs
- Test set of about 8,600 instances

Competition Constraints

- Submission run-time ≤ 9 hours
- Submission independent of internet access

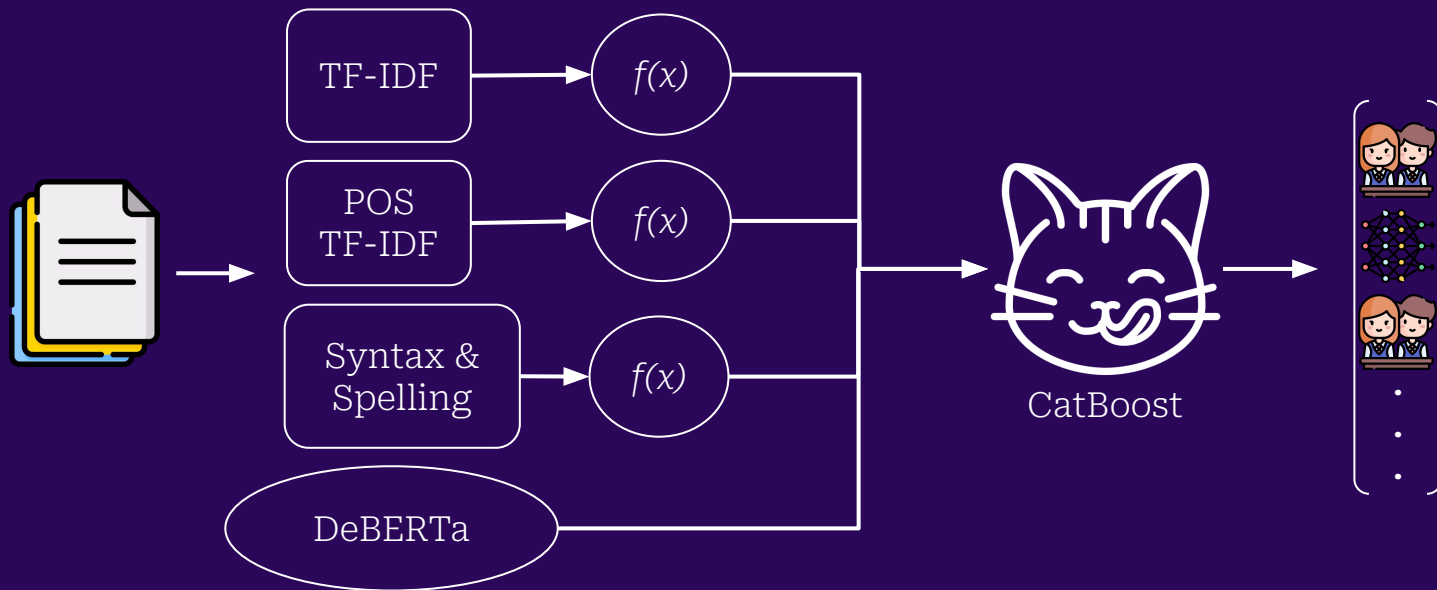

Our Strategy

- Using multiple methods to enhance our learning
- Lean pipeline
- Starting with public data
- Prioritizing syntax over semantics
- Misspelled words as a main model feature

Initial Architecture

Final Architecture

Results

0.83

Public Score

0.74

Private Score

67%

Rank Percentile

#	Team	Members	Score	Entries
1		  	0.987...	331
2	Guanshuo Xu		0.983...	74
3	nlp team	   +3	0.974...	280
4	Ertugrul & Chase	 	0.973...	399
5	Linguistic Ninjas	   +3	0.972...	289
6	Davide Cozzolino		0.969...	33
7	Hao Mei		0.965...	78

Conclusions

- Teams - it's complicated
- Submission, submission, submission!
- Discussion, discussion, discussion!

Thank you :)

Elia Yakin

Yasmin Zakaim

This presentation is based on a Slidesgo template and includes Flaticon free icons: Robot, Search, Linkedin, Documents, Neural network, and Students by Freepik; Kitty by Sir.Vecto